Voices of the library community in New York

Margaret A. Lanoue
Associate Director,
The Sage Colleges - Libraries

“The thing I value most about NYLA is the opportunity to meet librarians working in all kinds of libraries and to keep up on the issues that affect us all.

NYLA is the leader in New York State advocacy that makes a better environment for all libraries.”

Marcia Eggleston
School Library Media Specialist,
Norwood - Norfolk Central School

“NYLA is the voice of librarians for New York State. But NYLA is only as loud as its members allow it to be. As a school librarian with 23 years experience, it’s been my pleasure to be active in SLMS and NYLA. Join the ranks of active members and let your voice be heard.”

Robert Jaquay
Director, William K. Sanford Town Library

“Seeing and experiencing NYLA’s growth and change over the years has convinced me time and again that NYLA’s place in our roles as librarians and advocates for libraries is significant, in fact belonging is a must! As a “budding” administrator, my participation in NYLA gave me the ability to learn great skills, connect with others, and then pass those benefits on to my colleagues, trustees, and community... Thank you NYLA.”

NEW YORK LIBRARY ASSOCIATION
The Voice of the Library Community

About NYLA

The New York Library Association is the Voice of the Library Community in New York. NYLA, established by Melvil Dewey in 1890, is the oldest state library association in the country and represents school, academic, special and public libraries and library staff from around the state.

NYLA is the only organization dedicated to advocating on behalf of libraries and library workers in Albany. NYLA advocates for increased funding for libraries and better working conditions for library staff. Library assistants and other support staff are all welcome to join NYLA and add their voice to their colleagues in helping shape the future of libraries and the library profession in New York.

NYLA offers a variety of services and programs to meet our members needs ranging from professional development opportunities at our Annual Conference and Regional Institutes to member discounts on a range of services and products for your personal or professional needs.

In addition, members receive our regular quarterly newsletter, the NYLA Bulletin, as well email updates via our Online Membership Center on legislative issues, professional development programs, and awards/scholarship announcements.

Visit www.nyla.org to learn more about the New York Library Association.
