Presents a Spring Tour to England:

The World of Jane Austen and Her Novels

April 25-May 4, 2015

Led by Dr. David M. Shapard, author of The Annotated Pride and Prejudice and other books on Jane Austen

Edventures is pleased to announce a Jane Austen Tour that departs for England on Saturday, April 25 and returns Monday, May 4, 2015. To bring to life the world inhabited by Jane Austen, and depicted in her novels, we will visit the principal places she lived, towns that figure prominently in her novels, and historic sites that reveal the nature of life in her time.

The first half of our time in England will be in Bath, a UNESCO world heritage site. Bath was the leading resort in England in the eighteenth century, and the city is still dominated by the beautiful Georgian architecture of that time. Jane Austen lived in Bath from 1801 to 1806 and set two of her novels, Persuasion and Northanger Abbey, there. While in Bath we will see the homes Jane Austen inhabited as well as the many streets and venues mentioned in the novels. We will tour the magnificent Assembly Rooms, the Jane Austen Centre, a historic Bath house, and the Pump Room, the leading center of Bath social life in Jane Austen's time. While there we will take a day trip to the picturesque coastal town of Lyme Regis, which Jane Austen visited and which she used as the setting for critical events in Persuasion.

For the second half of the tour we will travel to the historic town of Winchester (stopping on the way at the grand eighteenth century house and garden at Stourhead). In Winchester we will see the house where Jane Austen died and also tour the famous cathedral, where her grave lies. From Winchester we will take a day trip to Chawton, the village where Jane Austen lived in the latter part of her life and finished her novels. We will tour the still-standing house she inhabited, now a museum devoted to her, look around the village, and visit Chawton House, a large house owned and sometimes inhabited by Jane Austen's brother. Other day trips from Winchester will take us to Steventon, the village where she grew up and to The Vyne, a grand country house where she attended dances when young.

The trip will be led by David M. Shapard, who holds a doctorate in European history and who has written The Annotated Pride and Prejudice, The Annotated Persuasion, The Annotated Sense and Sensibility, The Annotated Northanger Abbey, and The Annotated Emma. David has given many talks about Jane Austen, and at each site of the tour he will provide valuable background information and relate it to Jane Austen, her novels, and the world she inhabited, often by citing crucial passages in the novels or in Jane's letters. For an interview with David Shapard about his work on Jane Austen, see http://vimeo.com/67129800.

Daily Itinerary:

Day 1: Saturday, April 25

Depart the USA

Members of the group not making their own separate travel arrangements will depart in the evening from New York City for an overnight flight to Heathrow Airport in London.

Day 2: Sunday, April 26

London to Bath

All members of the group, whether they have just flown in or are already in England, will meet in the morning at Heathrow Airport. From there we will depart together to Bath. On arrival in Bath we will take a bus tour of the outer part of the city. We will get off the bus in order to examine houses inhabited by Jane Austen and venues where important events occur in Northanger Abbey. Those who wish will also have time to look around Bath on their own.

Overnight in Bath
Welcome Dinner
Abbey Hotel (www.abbeyhotelbath.co.uk)

Day 3: Monday, April 27

Exploration of Bath: The Royal Crescent and Pump Room

In the morning we will take a bus tour of the central parts of Bath with a stop at the Royal Crescent, perhaps the most famous and impressive landmark in Bath. There we will discuss a crucial scene in Northanger Abbey that occurs on the Crescent, and go inside Royal Crescent #1, a grand house decorated in the eighteenth-century style that shows how Austen’s wealthy characters would have lived when they came to Bath. We will also visit the church where Jane Austen’s parents were married and where her father was buried. For lunch we will stop at the Pump Room, a grand room (connected to the principal baths of the city) where people could drink the mineral waters coming from beneath the ground and where many congregated in Austen's time to meet their friends and to see and be seen. After lunch we will tour the center of Bath, and discuss several important events in Persuasion and Northanger Abbey that occur at the exact places being visited.

Breakfast and lunch
Overnight in Bath

Day 4: Tuesday, April 28

Day Trip to Lyme Regis

In the morning we will take a bus to Lyme, a journey that will allow people to enjoy the rolling scenery of southwestern England. In Lyme we will begin in the center of the town, and discuss events that happen in Persuasion in the town and the way they were influenced by the town's geography. At the end we will walk toward the Cobb, the most prominent feature of Lyme, and have lunch nearby. After lunch, with the aid of readings from Persuasion, we will walk along the Cobb and try to recreate the dramatic episode in the novel of the accident on the Cobb. When that is done people will have a little time to explore Lyme on their own before we return to Bath.

Breakfast
Overnight in Bath

Day 5: Wednesday, April 29  Exploration of Bath: Tea with Mr. Darcy and Assembly Rooms

The morning will involve a walking tour of places in Bath connected to Austen. We will start at the location where Captain Wentworth proposes to Anne Elliot in Persuasion and trace the walking path they subsequently take. We will also visit other streets and sites that play important roles in the novels, and stop by the other two Bath residences of Jane Austen that are still standing. Our lunch will be at the Jane Austen Centre, where we will dine under a portrait of Mr. Darcy. After lunch we will visit the nearby Assembly Rooms, the main entertainment center in Bath in Austen's time and the site of important meetings in both her Bath novels. The Assembly Rooms contain some of the most spectacular interior architecture in the city, as well as an excellent museum of the history of costume. After the visit there people will have time to walk more around the city, visit other sites, return to the Jane Austen Centre to view its exhibits, go shopping, or indulge themselves in the fabulous Thermae Bath Spa (www.thermaebathspa.com).

Breakfast and lunch
Overnight in Bath

Day 6: Thursday, April 30  Travel to Winchester; Private Tour of Stourhead Gardens

Leaving Bath in the morning we will first stop at Stourhead, a magnificent country house and grounds. The house is an excellent example of the Palladian mansions that were the most popular style for country houses in the eighteenth century; its interiors evoke the grandeur that would have been seen in homes such as the Pemberley of Pride and Prejudice. Even more significantly, Stourhead contains what is probably the most beautiful and the most influential of the new landscaped gardens, characterized by unsymmetrical layouts and prominent natural features, that emerged in the eighteenth century in England, and that would have surrounded the houses inhabited by Austen's wealthy characters; the Stourhead grounds include a renowned temple that was used for the proposal scene in the 2005 film version of Pride and Prejudice. We will take a guided tour of the gardens, and people will also have the opportunity to visit the house on their own. In the afternoon we will continue on to Winchester, where we will do a tour of the cathedral, including a stop at Jane Austen's grave and a reading from the standard funeral service of her time. We will finish by walking toward the nearby house where she died, which is marked by a plaque; this will be accompanied by readings from Jane's final letters in Winchester and her sister's letters describing Jane's death and funeral.

Overnight in Winchester
Day 7: Friday, May 1

Day Trip to Chawton: Private Lunch and Tour at Chawton House

In 1809, at the age of thirty-three, Jane Austen, her mother, and her sister moved to Chawton to reside in a house owned by her brother Edward; she lived there until her death in 1817. The stability resulting from her continued residence (in contrast to the previous eight years of frequent change of abode) and the rural quiet of Chawton allowed her to focus on her writing, and it was during these years that her major novels were prepared for publication. Our visit will give us a sense of the atmosphere she experienced, for even with the presence of automobiles, Chawton remains a modest and mostly quiet village. We will begin the day with a visit to her house, which still stands fully intact and which, restored to reflect its state during Jane's time, is the principal site for learning about and experiencing her life and world. It is filled with her and her family's possessions, such as the small table where she composed her novels. We will walk through the village to Chawton House for a private lunch and tour this much grander house of Edward's which was his residence during part of the time Jane was living in Chawton. In recent years it has been restored to its earlier state. While touring the grounds of Chawton House we will visit the church that contains memorials to Jane's mother and sister and the adjacent graveyard where they are both buried.

Overnight in Winchester

Day 8: Saturday, May 2

Day Trip: Steventon and Private Tour of The Vyne

Steventon is the small village where Jane Austen's father served as rector and where she was born and lived until she was twenty-five. The house itself is no longer standing, but we will visit the site and the area around it, and, aided by its rural isolation and quiet, try to imagine ourselves, with the assistance of some readings from Jane Austen's letters, back in her time. We also will visit the church where her father preached and she worshiped; the church still looks mostly as it did in Jane's day, and its yard contains the grave of her brother James, who presided there after her father. Not far from Steventon is The Vyne, a splendid country house from Tudor times. Jane Austen attended dances held there, and her experience there undoubtedly assisted her in imagining the grand houses that dominate much of her novels. Between Steventon and The Vyne we will travel near the route that Jane took, and at The Vyne we will tour inside the house and look around the grounds.

Breakfast and Farewell Dinner
Overnight in Winchester

Day 9: Sunday, May 3

Free Day with Optional Visit to London or Other Popular Tourist Sites

Today is a free day to enjoy Winchester and its environs, to take a train to London (only a one hour trip), or to visit other popular tourist venues in southern England, such as Portsmouth or Salisbury. David will gladly escort those interested to the British Library in London to view her portable writing desk, which would have sat on the table we saw at the Jane Austen House in Chawton, and then on to the National Portrait Gallery to view the portrait of Jane painted by her sister Cassandra.

HOTELS:
In Bath the group will use two hotels, both with an environment consistent with a Jane Austen tour and located in the heart of the tourist area near the Abbey and Roman Baths.
Three Abbey Green (www.threeab beygreen.com) is a Four Star Gold Award guest house, hidden away in quiet cobbled square in the heart of central Bath, situated on a spacious green in a townhouse dating back to 1673. Each room has its own bath. In addition to twin rooms (two separate beds), the guest house features a quadruple room which would be perfect for groups of friends and family members traveling together or book group buddies. In Winchester where there are no rooms for four, the group of four will be split between two rooms. All rooms will be assigned on a first come first serve basis.

The Abbey Hotel (www.abbeyhotelbath.co.uk) began as Georgian townhouses for three families before being converted to a hotel. Almost all single guests will lodge here as well as overflow from the Three Abbey Green.

Please note: The rate is the same for both hotels and all rooms. There is no discount for a quadruple room because the room is much larger than those of the doubles.

In Winchester the group will stay at the Mercure Winchester Wessex Hotel (www.mercure.com or www.mercure-uk.com) located in the heart of Winchester next door to the cathedral (the longest Gothic Cathedral in Europe) and close to all sights. Edventures staff was thrilled to sit in the dining room with the first cup of coffee in the morning and gaze at the beauty of this structure, which stands grandly outside the dining room windows.

What is Edventures?

Edventures is a specialized tour firm founded in 1999 by Mary Rachun and Mary Huber that combines travel and learning. Its mission is to bring like-minded travelers together with a focus on something they enjoy….on location.

The Edventures Travel Experience

Edventures has been bringing travelers on exciting destination since 1999. We research, plan, and develop travel programs designed for specific audiences around a trip theme of art and culture which includes fun and adventure. We try to limit the number of hotels used on a trip so that travelers can unpack and really get to know a place.

We go behind the scenes and explore a theme in depth. We research special exhibits and hire only the most knowledgeable guides in each destination. We limit the size of the group (based on our experience, even restroom stops with a group of forty travelers overseas can be a half-day experience!). Edventures designs educational background material on each destination so that travelers can prepare themselves for the experience and pursue individual areas of interest. With this attention to detail and subsequent customer satisfaction, more than half of our clients are repeat travelers, and they have told us time and time again how much they appreciate the Edventures formula for travel.

This will be the second time Edventures has offered a Jane Austen Tour and we look forward to sharing this special experience with you.
