JOIN OUR BACKCHANNEL!

Password: NYLA2019

Ask questions and discuss with fellow attendees live.
WHAT IS COLLEGE READINESS?

Role of Librarians in College Readiness
INTRODUCTIONS

Carl Andrews
Bronx Community College

Melissa Balk
Thousand Islands High School

Leanne Ellis
New York City Department of Education

Stephanie Pritchard
SUNY Oswego

Christi Sommerfeldt
Northern New York Library

Role of Librarians in College Readiness
COLLEGE READINESS IS...

"... being mentally prepared for the workload and stress of college. In addition to this college readiness is being academically prepared to keep up with the other students and the professor, and having good listening and studying skills"

- High School Senior
COLLEGE READINESS IS...

“...just being prepared for your transition from high school to college. Apply to the colleges that you hope to get into, along with one or two backups, apply for scholarships, fill out the FASFA application, go to open houses of the colleges you are applying to. All of that is just being ready on paper though. Mentally, I don’t think anyone can be fully prepared. Being ready for college is all about making sure you take every step to make this chapter in your life as simple and painless as possible for you.”

- High School Senior
COLLEGE READINESS IS...

“... preparing and setting yourself up to enter the real, working world. College readiness may be visiting colleges and learning the difference you are making by transitioning from high school. Making sure you have everything completed prior to entering/applying to college and making the realization that you are going to be an adult and you must rely less on others to walk through life. Getting at least a general understanding of what college life will be like seems to be the only thing you can do to be ready for the transition and change.”

- High School Senior
COLLEGE READINESS IS...

“... being able to be independent on your own, and with your studies. Having the ability to accomplish what is expected of you on your own without a parent or teacher always being by your side. Having the willingness and drive to study and finish difficult assignments that may have come easier in high school.”

- High School Senior
“... preparing and setting yourself up to enter the real, working world. College readiness may be visiting colleges and learning the difference you are making by transitioning from high school. Making sure you have everything completed prior to entering/applying to college and making the realization that you are going to be an adult and you must rely less on others to walk through life. Getting at least a general understanding of what college life will be like seems to be the only thing you can do to be ready for the transition and change.”

~ High School Senior
THANK YOU!
QUESTIONS?

Carl Andrews
Bronx Community College

Melissa Balk
Thousand Islands High School

Leanne Ellis
New York City Department of Education

Stephanie Pritchard
SUNY Oswego

Christi Sommerfeldt
Northern New York Library